COUNTY FARM AGENT

Some Reasons Why the County Should Have One

There seems to be some speculation as to whether or not the Carroll county court will be asked to make an appropriation for county agent work at the July term. This article will definitely answer that question; but first let us consider one or two points.

One of our neighbors says put the money into good roads now and that minor things can wait. Let us have good roads by all means. But how many miles of good roads can be built with the few hundred dollars usually voted to help on the county agent's salary? $255,000 00 is now available for the roads of Carroll county, in addition to the regular county road tax. By comparison we must see that it is foolish to suppose that the paltry sum involved in a county agent's salary could influence the county's big road building program either one way or the other.

Another citizen thinks the county agent proposition a good one if we can not do better, but thinks it would be better to have district and county organizations of farmers to discuss farming matters of interest. Such organizations exist in a great many counties, and one of the first things they do is to secure the services of a county agent to work with them. A number of such organizations were formed in Carroll county and they always used the county agent more than the people did in unorganized communities. The organization idea is a good one, and when we get that all over the county, it will not be necessary to wonder if the county court will be asked to vote an appropriation for demonstration work. The organization will demand and get an agent.

To make farming more profitable in Carroll county, as well as in other counties, we need to grow more cover crops to turn under, have better pastures and keep more and better live stock, lime sour soil and grow more clover and alfalfa and use better machinery. The U. S. Department of Agriculture believes that with the aid of its specialists with their laboratories and experiment stations, much valuable information can be gained and transmitted to the farmer. Recently a great deal of work is being done toward marketing for the farmer at a better profit. Henry, Madison and other counties joining Carroll are saving a great deal of money this year on this item alone.

Millions of dollars are appropriated annually to maintain this work. We pay our share toward its support. In return every county is invited to make an appropriation to meet the government's offer, and a man will be furnished in that county and supervised as well as aided by men from the department at Washington. About 90 per cent of the counties in the south have taken advantage of this offer, and so gain the benefits of the work. We all pay our share to maintain the work, whether we contribute a little to entitle us to share in the benefits or not. It is there for us and we can take it or leave it.

At present there are more positions open than there are trained men to take them. Carroll county's former agent was offered Lake county the first of January, and rejected it. The same offer came June 15, with the statement that the place had been open for all that time because a sufficiently trained man had not been found to take the place. All available men are being placed, but only in counties which show a keen interest in the work and express a strong desire for an agent. Such conditions do not exist in Carroll county; there is no applicant for the place, and the July quarterly court will not be asked for an appropriation for county agent work.

In closing I wish to thank my friends and supporters over the county for the support given me and the work in the past and for their willingness to help out again at this time. All this is appreciated very much. Personally I have other interests which will keep me busy. However, I have the interests of the county at heart and hope you will win in your fight for better agricultural conditions, and that at a future date you will secure the services of a good county agent. Interesting Occasion

Soldiers and Community Day was observed at Mt. Zion last Sunday, and it was a very interesting occasion. There was a fairly good crowd present and a very enjoyable program was rendered. Capt. Gordon Browning and C. H. Moody were the speakers for the morning and Rev. D. B. Raulins and Mrs. E. Love Hawkins spoke in the afternoon. A fine dinner was served on the ground and everybody had an enjoyable day. The rain cloud that came up in the afternoon dispersed the crowd to some extent and marred the pleasure of the day somewhat.

CONGRESSIONAL MATTERS

Two More Prospective Candidates in the Eighth

It looks now like there is going to be something doing in the Eighth Congressional district for the democratic nomination. If there is anything in rumor there will be a field full of candidates.

Political gossipers have already associated the names of Capt. Gordon Browning, ex-Gov. Tom C. Rye and Congressman T. W. Sims with decided congressional aspirations. And now comes the rumor that Porter Dunlap, former state treasurer, who, since going out of office, has entered the practice of law with Mr. Spraggins at Jackson, and J. C. Rainey, a wealthy merchant of Cottage Grove, Henry county, are encouraging the buzzing of very distinct congressional bees.

The Eighth district has always afforded a field for speculation and interesting contests in both primary and general elections, but the present congressman is serving his twelfth consecutive term.

Delays Dangerous

Flies and mosquitoes are responsible for a heavy percentage of the illness prevalent in the country during the summer months, all malarial and probably most typhoid being traceable to these pests.

Good screens, however expensive they may seem, are far more economical than sickness and doctors' and drug bills. It is the duty of the man of the house to buy good screens for every door and window and then see to it that these are properly put on.

Have you attended to this job? If you have not, it is a matter that should be looked to without delay. —Progressive Farmer.

Mrs. Pauline Hobbs

Mrs. Pauline Hobbs, wife of Vern Hobbs of the Ninth district, died very suddenly last Friday night at 9 o'clock from a hemorrhage. She had been in bad health for some time, but was able to be up, and on Friday was able to go down to the Cozort store nearby, and retired feeling fairly well. She was 25 years old, a member of the Baptist church, and is survived by her husband and one child. She was a most excellent woman and greatly esteemed by a large circle of friends. The burial occurred at Shiloh Saturday, after funeral services conducted by Rev. Edgar McCoy.

Differing Views on Marriage.

When a marriage is announced, the bride's woman friend says: "I wonder why they waited so long. She was getting old and crabbed." And the groom's man friends says: "What did the blamed fool marry so early for? He'll lose the best years of his life." —Kansas City Star.

Old Christmas Day.

Old Christmas day is, according to the Julian calendar, observed by Russia and the Greek church, and differs from the Gregorian calendar by 13 days and is celebrated on January 6 and New Year's day on January 13.

REPUBLICANS LAYING PLANS

To Give Battle in Tennessee for Everything in Sight

The republicans are laying plans to give battle for every office in Tennessee in 1920, from governor to constable, and the leaders believe the chances for success are excellent. Chairman Will Hays, of the republican national committee, who has been in Washington for several days, endeavoring to straighten out the tangled situation on the republican side of the senate, with respect to the league of nations fight, has found time to discuss with prominent Tennessee republicans the situation in the Volunteer State. He has been assured that with proper support from the national organization, the party's chances for success in 1920 are better than at any time within recent years, except in the fusion period of 1910-12.

James S. Beasley, former chairman of the republican state executive committee, and other prominent republicans who have been to Washington recently have predicted a republican victory in 1920 in Tennessee, and have stated that all they need is the sinews of war.

Now the sinews of war is an important thing in the conduct of a republican campaign in Tennessee. But they do not always insure success.

This desire to get control of national and state affairs finds a ready response, even among our Huntingdon republican friends. They are already beginning to plan and get in shape to take everything they can get their hands on, politically speaking.

They now, for the first time, occupy every office at the court house, the deputy clerk and master being a republican. The term of office of the clerk and master, who is a democrat, will expire this fall, and there are prospects of a lively fight among republicans for his successor.

The usual fight for the county offices will soon be in full swing, and no one of the present officers seem to be absolutely immune to opposition. It may be possible that a candidate for congress will have his citizenship in Carroll county. Republicans are always willing to take any old office that lies around loose.
